Memorandum to Mr. Zimmerman:

I think Mr. Lipps is right and his letter confirms what I said recently that possibly our whole organization work in the north half of California is wrong and that we had better take stock of the situation. It seems to me that our anthropologists should make a study of the various groups, their relationship to each other, their tribal affiliation, etc. From such a study we should then work out our land program and possibly instead of buying some small tracts to be added to existing rancherias with a multiple number of small organizations we should buy a large area, forget our existing rancherias, especially those which are worthless, and endeavor to work out a program of locating these Indians on a large tract and developing our tribal organization around such a group.
