Case No. EDCV 08-1753-VAP
(OPx)
[Motion filed on April 5, 2010]
ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND

Through this action, Plaintiff Twenty-Nine Palms Band of Mission Indians ("Plaintiff" or "the Tribe") challenges the imposition of California's personal income tax on income received by its members in connection with a casino operated on Tribal lands. Defendants Selvi Stanislaus, John Chiang, Betty T. Yee, and Ana Matosantos ("Defendants") now move to dismiss Plaintiff's Third Amended Complaint ("TAC"). For the reasons set forth below, the Court GRANTS Defendants' motion and dismisses the Third Amended Complaint without leave to amend.

1 I. BACKGROUND

2 A. Plaintiff's Factual Allegations

3 Plaintiff is a federally recognized Indian tribe.
4 (TAC ¶ 6.) It has twelve members over eighteen years of 5 age. (TAC ¶ 11.) Plaintiff has real property located in 6 Coachella, California and near Twenty-Nine Palms, 7 California comprising its reservation. (TAC ¶ 12.) It 8 operates a class III gaming casino on its reservation in 9 Coachella. (TAC ¶ 14.) No members of the Tribe reside 10 on the reservation.¹ The land in Coachella is divided 11 into two portions; one is occupied by the casino and its 12 parking lot, and the other is unsuitable for habitation 13 due to its proximity to a sanitation plant. (TAC ¶ 21.)
14 The land in Twenty-Nine Palms is undeveloped, and not 15 currently suitable for housing. (TAC ¶ 22.)

16
17 In connection with the casino, Plaintiff periodically
18 prepares and submits to the Bureau of Indian Affairs 19 ("BIA") a revenue allocation plan ("RAP"). The RAP 20 controls how Plaintiff distributes net income from its 21 casino. (TAC ¶ 15-16.) Plaintiff makes per capita 22 payments to its members from its net casino revenues as 23

24 ¹Plaintiff alleges that "[a]pproximately one-fourth 25 of the Tribal members are living out of state in part to 26 avoid [the tax]." (TAC ¶ 28(h).) Neither side has 27 indicated whether California has attempted to impose its 28 personal income tax on Tribe members residing both off-reservation and outside of California. The Court assumes that California has not sought to do so, and that the only claims raised in the Third Amended Complaint relate to Tribe members residing in California.

1 authorized by the RAP. (TAC ¶ 16.) Additionally,
2 certain of Plaintiff's members are employed by Plaintiff
3 "relative to issues involving the Casino." (TAC ¶ 20.)

5 The State of California, through imposition of its 6 personal income tax, taxes monies received by members of 7 Plaintiff both through the per capita payments and in 8 connection with work performed for Plaintiff relating to 9 the casino. (TAC ¶ 5.) In contemplating the terms of 10 the RAP, Plaintiff does not take California's personal 11 income tax into account. (TAC ¶ 17.)
12

13 B. Procedural History

14 Plaintiff filed its Complaint on December 2, 2008.
15 Pursuant to the parties' stipulation and the Court's 16 Order, Plaintiff filed a First Amended Complaint on March 17 27, 2009, alleging claims for (1) breach of tribal 18 compact; (2) federal preemption; and (3) exemption of 19 income under the Indian Gaming Regulation Act ("IGRA"), 20 doctrine of tribal sovereignty, and state law. On 21 September 4, 2009, the Court granted Defendants' motion 22 to dismiss the First Amended Complaint and granted 23 Plaintiff leave to amend with respect to certain aspects 24 of its second and third claims for relief.
25
26
27
28

1 Plaintiff filed a Second Amended Complaint on October
2 1, 2009. On February 24, 2010, the Court granted 3 Plaintiff leave to file a Third Amended Complaint, which 4 Plaintiff filed on February 26, 2010. The Third Amended 5 Complaint contained a single claim for relief against 6 Defendants, all members of California's Franchise Tax 7 Board, entitled "federal preemption," and seeks an order 8 enjoining Defendants from imposing California's personal 9 income tax on Tribe members and a declaration that Tribe 10 members are not obligated to pay California's personal 11 income tax.²

12
13 Defendants filed their Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's 14 Third Amended Complaint on April 5, 2010. Plaintiff's 15 Opposition and Defendants' Reply were filed timely.

16
17 C. Requests for Judicial Notice

18 In support of the Motion and Opposition, Defendants 19 and Plaintiff respectively request that the Court take 20 judicial notice of certain facts. Both sides have filed 21 objections to the other's requests. The Court addresses 22 each separately.

23
24
25
26

²Although not specified in the prayer for relief, 27 presumably Plaintiff only seeks such an order and 28 declaration to the extent that California seeks to tax income derived from the Tribe's gaming operation of Tribe members residing in California.

1 1. Defendants' Request for Judicial Notice

2 Defendants request that the Court take judicial 3 notice of the following documents: (1) an 1895 4 proclamation by President Grover Cleveland; (2) a 5 December 12, 2007 press release by Plaintiff; (3) a March 6 20, 2007 press release by Plaintiff; (4) a draft 7 environmental assessment; (5) a letter dated February 18, 8 2008 from Michael Derry of Wastenot Tribal Services to 9 Beverly Sweetwater of the BIA; (6) 25 C.F.R. Part 290;
10 (7) a letter dated January 4, 1994 from Anthony J. Hope 11 of the National Indian Gaming Commission to Plaintiff; 12 (8) I.R.S. Publication 3908; (9) a letter dated October 13 6, 2004 from George Skibine of the Department of the 14 Interior to Mike Dean of Plaintiff; and (10) a draft 15 environmental assessment. The Court takes judicial 16 notice of Part 290 of the Code of Federal Regulations.
17 With respect to the remaining documents, as discussed 18 below, the Court has not relied on such documents in 19 deciding this Motion. Accordingly, Defendants' request 20 for judicial notice of these documents is moot.

21
22 2. Plaintiff's Request for Judicial Notice

23 In its Opposition to the Motion, Plaintiff requests 24 the Court take judicial notice of four documents: (1) a 25 letter dated December 8, 2009 from Daniel Kopulsky of 26 California's Department of Transportation to Beverly 27 Sweetwater of the BIA; (2) a letter dated December 10, 28

1 2009 from Andrea Lynn Hoch of the California Governor's 2 Office to Francine Munoz of the BIA; (3) a letter dated 3 March 21, 1994 from Plaintiff to Terry Heidi of the 4 National Indian Gaming Commission; and (4) a letter dated 5 April 25, 2003 from Aurene Martin, Assistant Secretary of 6 Indian Affairs, to Gus Fran of the Forest County 7 Potwatomi Community. Plaintiff also submitted the 8 Declaration of Anthony Madrigal ("Madrigal Declaration"), 9 to which it attached an archaeological assessment 10 prepared by Applied EarthWorks, Inc. Defendants object 11 to each of the four documents, as well as the Madrigal 12 Declaration and the attached archaeological assessment.

13

14 The Madrigal Declaration and the attached 15 archaeological assessment relate to an environmental 16 assessment of a Tribal cemetery on the Tribe's 17 reservation and to archaeological remains found on the 18 Tribe's reservation. These facts are not capable of 19 ready determination by resort to sources whose accuracy 20 cannot reasonably be questioned, see Fed. R. Evid.
21 201(b), and the Court declines to take judicial notice of 22 them.

24 Similarly, the four letters of which Plaintiff
25 requests the Court take judicial notice and the contents 26 thereof are not capable of ready determination by resort 27 to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be

28

1 questioned. The Court declines to take judicial notice 2 of these letters.

3 4 II. LEGAL STANDARD

5 Under Rule 12(b)(6), a party may bring a motion to 6 dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief 7 can be granted. As a general matter, the Federal Rules 8 require only that a plaintiff provide "'a short and plain 9 statement of the claim' that will give the defendant fair 10 notice of what the plaintiff's claim is and the grounds 11 upon which it rests." Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 47 12 (1957) (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2)); Bell Atlantic 13 Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007). In addition, 14 the Court must accept all material allegations in the 15 complaint - as well as any reasonable inferences to be 16 drawn from them - as true. See Doe v. United States, 419 17 F.3d 1058, 1062 (9th Cir. 2005); ARC Ecology v. U.S.
18 Dep't of Air Force, 411 F.3d 1092, 1096 (9th Cir. 2005).

19 20 "While a complaint attacked by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion 21 to dismiss does not need detailed factual allegations, a 22 plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 23 'entitlement to relief' requires more than labels and 24 conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements 25 of a cause of action will not do." Bell Atlantic, 550
26 U.S. at 555 (citations omitted). Rather, the allegations

1 in the complaint "must be enough to raise a right to 2 relief above the speculative level." Id.

4 In other words, the allegations must be plausible on 5 the face of the complaint. See Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556
6 U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 1949 (2009). "The plausibility 7 standard is not akin to a 'probability requirement,' but 8 it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a 9 defendant has acted unlawfully. Where a complaint pleads 10 facts that are 'merely consistent with' a defendant's 11 liability, it stops short of the line between possibility 12 and plausibility of 'entitlement to relief.'" Id.
13 (citations and internal quotations omitted).

15 Although the scope of review is limited to the 16 contents of the complaint, the Court may also consider 17 exhibits submitted with the complaint, Hal Roach Studios, 18 Inc. v. Richard Feiner & Co., 896 F.2d 1542, 1555 n.19 19 (9th Cir. 1990), and "take judicial notice of matters of 20 public record outside the pleadings," Mir v. Little Co.
21 of Mary Hosp., 844 F.2d 646, 649 (9th Cir. 1988). A 22 court "need not accept as true allegations contradicting 23 documents that are referenced in the complaint or that 24 are properly subject to judicial notice." Lazy Y Ranch 25 Ltd. v. Behrens, 546 F.3d 580, 588 (9th Cir. 2008).

III. DISCUSSION

2 Plaintiff challenges the legality of California's 3 personal income tax as applied to (1) per capita payments 4 from casino revenues made to its members under the RAP;
5 and (2) wages received by its members for work performed 6 in connection with the casino.³ In its September 4, 2009 7 Order granting Defendants' motion to dismiss the First 8 Amended Complaint, the Court granted Plaintiff leave to 9 amend for the narrow purpose of alleging facts showing 10 that the tax as applied to Plaintiff's members either is 11 impliedly preempted by the IGRA or interferes with 12 Plaintiff's tribal sovereignty. For the reasons 13 discussed below, the Court concludes (1) the IGRA does 14 not impliedly preempt California's personal income tax as 15 applied to the Plaintiff's members, and (2) the tax does not 16 interfere with Plaintiff's sovereignty.

17 18 A. Plaintiff Fails to Allege Sufficiently That 19 Application of the Tax Is Preempted by the IGRA

20 The Court already has held that the IGRA does not 21 explicitly preempt application of the tax to Tribe 22 members. (Doc. No. 33 at 14:1-15:10.) In its September 23

24 ³Plaintiff alleges "[a] number of the Members are 25 employed by the Tribe relative to issues involving the 26 Casino." This allegation, however, is so vague and 27 generalized as to be practically meaningless. The Court 28 nevertheless construes this allegation in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, meaning, for purposes of this Motion, that the Court assumes that such members are employed directly by the Tribe and that all work is performed on the reservation.

1 4, 2009 Order, the Court left open the question of 2 whether or not application of the tax was implicitly 3 preempted by the IGRA. Plaintiff now argues that the 4 Third Amended Complaint contains sufficient allegations 5 to show that application of the tax to its members is 6 implicitly preempted by the IGRA. (Opp'n at 14:1-15:21.)

8 "The preemption analysis in Indian tribal cases 9 differs from that used in other circumstances. Congress 10 attaches great significance to the firm federal policy of 11 promoting tribal self-sufficiency and economic 12 development. It intended that this policy be given broad 13 preemptive effect. Moreover, no express congressional 14 statement of preemptive intent is required; it is enough 15 that the state law conflicts with the purpose or 16 operation of a federal statute, regulation, or policy." 17 Crow Tribe of Indians v. Montana, 819 F.2d 895, 898 (9th 18 Cir. 1987) (internal citations and quotations omitted) 19 (emphasis in original).
20

21 Accordingly, in order to plead sufficiently that 22 application of California's tax to Tribe members is 23 implicitly preempted by the IGRA, Plaintiff must allege 24 facts plausibly showing that application of the tax to 25 its members interferes with either (1) the purpose of or 26 (2) the operation of the IGRA. See Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 27 1949. For the reasons discussed below, the Court 28

1 concludes Plaintiff has failed to do so, and GRANTS 2 Defendants' Motion to the extent Plaintiff's claim is 3 based on implied preemption by the IGRA.⁴

5 1. The Tax Does Not Conflict with the Purpose of 6 the IGRA

7 Plaintiff inaccurately states the congressional 8 purpose behind the IGRA; it argues the "IGRA is intended 9 to promote tribal economic development, self-sufficiency, 10 and strong tribal interest." (Opp'n at 15:10-12.) In 11 support of this proposition, Plaintiff relies on 25
12 U.S.C. § 2701(4).⁵ Section 2701(4) announces Congress's 13 finding that "a principal goal of Federal Indian policy 14 is to promote tribal economic development, tribal self-15 sufficiency, and strong tribal government." This is a 16 general statement of federal policy towards Indian 17 tribes, and not a statement of the specific purpose 18 behind the IGRA. The Supreme Court recognized that 19

20 ⁴The Ninth Circuit's recent decision in Rincon Bank 21 of Luiseno Mission Indians of the Rincon Reservation v.
22 Schwarzenegger, ___ F.3d ___, Case No. 08-55809, 2010 WL 23 1542452 (9th Cir. Apr. 20, 2010), does not affect the 24 Court's analysis. Rincon involved express provisions of 25 the IGRA which prevented states from imposing taxes or assessments on tribes for purposes other than defraying the cost of regulating tribal gaming. Here, by contrast, California's state income tax is directed towards individuals, not the Tribe itself, and is non-discriminatory with respect to the source of income.

26 ⁵Plaintiff actually cites 25 U.S.C. § 2701(1). (See 27 Opp'n at 15:10-12.) As the quoted language actually 28 appears at 25 U.S.C. § 2701(4), the Court assumes this was in error, and that Plaintiff intended to rely on 25
U.S.C. § 2701(4).

1 "Congress passed the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act in 1988
2 in order to provide a statutory basis for the operation 3 and regulation of gaming by Indian tribes." Seminole 4 Tribe of Florida v. Florida, 517 U.S. 44, 48 (1996); see 5 also Barona Band of Mission Indians v. Yee, 528 F.3d 6 1184, 1193 (9th Cir. 2008) ("IGRA's core objective is to 7 regulate how Indian casinos function so as to assure the 8 gaming is conducted fairly and honestly by both the 9 operator and players."). For purposes of this Motion, 10 the Court adopts the expression of purpose behind the 11 IGRA set forth by the Supreme Court in Seminole Tribe, 12 rather than the broad general statement of federal policy 13 advanced by Plaintiff. While creating a statutory basis 14 for the operation and regulation of gaming by Indian 15 tribes was certainly intended to advance the general 16 policy favoring tribal economic development and self-17 sufficiency, see 25 U.S.C. § 2702(1), the specific 18 purpose of the IGRA is narrower than the broader federal 19 policy.⁶

21 ⁶To the extent Plaintiff may be arguing application 22 of the tax is preempted by a conflict with the broader 23 federal policy because the tax adversely impacts Tribal 24 resources, this argument also fails. The Supreme Court 25 repeatedly has recognized the ability of states, under 26 appropriate circumstances, to impose taxes on Indian 27 tribes and their members. See, e.g., Oklahoma Tax Comm'n 28 v. Chickasaw Nation, 515 U.S. 450, 453 (1995) ("We further hold . . . that Oklahoma may tax the income (including wages from tribal employment) of all persons, Indian and non-Indian alike, residing in the state outside Indian country."); Mescalero Apache Tribe v.
Jones, 411 U.S. 145, 157-58 (1973) (holding that New Mexico may tax income from ski resort owned and operated

1 Plaintiff fails to explain how application of 2 California's personal income tax to individual tribal 3 members living off-reservation conflicts with Congress's 4 objective of providing a statutory basis for the 5 operation and regulation of gaming by Indian tribes.
6 Plaintiff argues the tax "clearly has a negative impact 7 on the Tribe, its RAP, and its ability to provide for its 8 members." (Opp'n at 15:17-18.) Such vague, conclusory 9 assertions fail to demonstrate a conflict between 10 application of the tax and the purposes of IGRA, however.
11 Application of the tax to Tribe members living off 12 reservation lands does not affect the operation of the 13 casino, and is not an attempt to impose any regulations 14 on the casino. Accordingly, application of the tax to 15 Tribe members living off-reservation does not conflict 16 with the purpose of the IGRA.

17 18 2. Plaintiff Fails to Allege Sufficiently that the 19 Tax Conflicts with the Operation of the IGRA

20 It appears that Plaintiff also maintains that 21 imposition of the tax on its members interferes with the 22 operation of the IGRA. (See Opp'n at 6:21-24, 23 18:17-19:2, 20:20-21:3.) To the extent Plaintiff asserts 24

26 ⁶(...continued)
27 by tribe off-reservation). State taxes plainly do not 28 conflict with the federal policy of promoting tribal economic development and self-sufficiency merely because they impose an economic burden on a tribe or its members.

1 that application of the tax conflicts with the IGRA's 2 implementation, its argument fails.

4 In support of this claim, Plaintiff asserts that 5 "this case involves disrupting the federally regulated 6 RAP, a tribal law, which was agreed to with and approved 7 by the federal government." (Opp'n at 18:17-18.)⁷ The 8 only specific way in which Plaintiff alleges that the tax 9 interferes with the operation of the IGRA, however, is by 10 "requiring the Tribe to . . . readjust and redistribute 11 the categories in its RAP." (Opp'n at 6:17-22.)
12

13 The California income tax requires no such thing.
14 Plaintiff identifies no provision in California tax law 15 that "requires" it to do anything. The tax is not 16 imposed on the Tribe, and requires nothing of the Tribe.
17 It simply requires Tribe members who live off-reservation 18 to pay personal income tax on income received either from 19 distributions of Tribal gaming revenue or for work 20
21
22

23 ⁷Plaintiff also maintains that "[t]he Supreme Court 24 in Cabazon has already ruled that the federal interest in 25 on-reservation gaming is more important than this state's 26 interest in regulating it." (Opp'n at 18:18-20.) The 27 Court already has rejected this argument, however, 28 recognizing that the balancing test set forth in White Mountain Apache Tribe v. Bracker, 448 U.S. 136 (1980) does not apply here because the Bracker test applies exclusively to on-reservation transactions between a nontribal entity and a tribe or tribe member. (Doc. No.
33 at 15:22-16:8.)

1 performed in connection with the Tribe's casino.⁸ If the 2 Tribe wishes to ensure its members receive a certain 3 amount of after-tax income, it is free to endeavor to 4 amend the RAP to provide for that level of income. This 5 is Plaintiff's choice, however; it has cited no authority 6 showing that the State of California requires it to do 7 so.

9 B. The Tax Does Not Infringe Upon Tribal Sovereignty

10 In its September 4, 2009 Order, the Court also 11 granted Plaintiff leave to amend to allege that 12 application of the tax to Tribe members interferes with 13 Plaintiff's tribal sovereignty. In the Third Amended 14 Complaint, Plaintiff attempts to do so.

15 16 Through its Indian tax immunity jurisprudence, the 17 Supreme Court has recognized that "the 'who' and the 18 'where' of [a] challenged tax have significant 19 consequences." Wagon v. Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation, 20 546 U.S. 95, 101 (2005). The Supreme Court has 21 "explained that this jurisprudence relies 'heavily on the 22

24 ⁸According to Plaintiff, the RAP only applies to 25 "income from net gaming proceeds." (Opp'n at 5:11-12.)
26 Compensation for work performed in connection with the 27 casino, however, is a cost of operating the casino. Such 28 compensation thus presumably is not paid out of "net gaming proceeds" and is not governed by the RAP.
Plaintiff's argument fails for this additional reason with respect to application of the tax to income received by Tribe members for work performed in connection with the casino.

1 doctrine of tribal sovereignty which historically gave 2 state law no role to play within a tribe's territorial 3 boundaries.'" Id. at 112 (quoting Oklahoma Tax Comm'n v.
4 Sac and Fox Nation, 508 U.S. 114, 123-23 (1993)).

6 Though Plaintiff now argues that the legal incidence 7 of California's income tax falls on "the Tribe or its 8 members," (see Opp'n at 9:18-11:8), the Court has already 9 held that the legal incidence of the tax falls on the 10 Tribe's members with respect to both types of income at 11 issue, and declines to revisit that ruling. (Doc. No. 33 12 at 16:10-17:2.)

13
14 The crucial question here, then, is where the legal 15 incidence of the state's income tax occurs. On the one 16 hand, the Supreme Court has recognized that "[a]bsent 17 explicit congressional direction to the contrary, we 18 presume against a State's having the jurisdiction to tax 19 within Indian country." Chickasaw, 515 U.S. at 458
20 (emphasis added).⁹ On the other hand, the Supreme Court 21 has also recognized that "[a]bsent express federal law to 22 the contrary, Indians going beyond reservation boundaries 23 have generally been held subject to non-discriminatory

25
26 _____
27 ⁹Defendants apparently do not dispute Plaintiff's 28 contention that no federal statute expressly authorizes application of California's income tax to the Tribe members.

1 state law otherwise applicable to all citizens of the 2 State." Mescalero, 411 U.S. at 148-49.

4 Perhaps unsurprisingly, Plaintiff urges the Court to 5 find that the legal incidence of the tax falls on the 6 reservation, (see Opp'n at 11:10-13:28), while Defendants 7 maintain that the legal incidence of the tax falls off 8 the reservation.

10 Plaintiff argues that because its casino operations 11 occur on reservation lands, the legal incidence of any 12 tax on income ultimately generated from those operations 13 and distributed to Tribe members – either in the form of 14 per capita distributions or wages for employment – falls 15 on the reservation. (See Opp'n at 11:10-12:19.) 16 Plaintiff cites no authority for the proposition that the 17 legal incidence of an income tax falls on the location 18 where the activities generating the income occur, 19 however.¹⁰ Furthermore, such a rule would run contrary to 20 the "well-established principle of interstate and 21 international taxation . . . that a jurisdiction . . .
22 may tax all the income of its residents, even income 23 earned outside the taxing jurisdiction." Chickasaw, 515 24 U.S. at 462-63 (emphasis in original).

25

26

27 ¹⁰Each of the cases relied on by Plaintiff in support 28 of this argument involve either an excise tax or sales tax.

1 Plaintiff alternatively argues that the economic 2 effects of the tax are ultimately felt by the Tribe 3 because the Tribe must either (1) adjust its per capita 4 distributions (and, presumably, wages paid to its 5 employees) to provide its members with sufficient income 6 to obtain housing, or (2) invest Tribal funds to 7 construct housing on its reservation so that its members 8 may avoid California's income tax.¹¹ (See Opp'n at 9 12:20-13:28.) This argument also fails, however.

10 11 Plaintiff's alternative argument ignores the 12 distinction between the party bearing the legal incidence 13 of a tax and the party bearing the ultimate economic 14 burden of that tax. Simply showing that a party bears 15 the economic burden of a tax is insufficient to show that 16 party bears the legal incidence of the tax. See Barona, 17 528 F.3d at 1189 ("The party bearing the legal incidence 18 of a state tax may well differ from the party bearing the 19 economic burden of that tax."); Coeur D'Alene Tribe of 20 Idaho v. Hammond, 384 F.3d 674, 681 (9th Cir. 2004) ("The 21 person or entity bearing the legal incidence of the tax 22 is not necessarily the one bearing the economic 23

24
25 ¹¹To the extent Plaintiff argues that the tax 26 interferes with its sovereignty by requiring it to 27 construct on-reservation housing, this argument is not 28 well-taken. As discussed above, Plaintiff has identified no provision of California tax law that requires the Tribe to do anything at all. Whether or not to invest in construction of housing on its reservation remains entirely within the discretion of the Tribe.

1 burden."). Rather, the Ninth Circuit has held that "to 2 discern where the legal incidence lies, [courts] 3 ascertain the legal obligations imposed upon the 4 concerned parties, and this inquiry does not extend to 5 divining the legislature's 'true' economic object." 6 Coeur D'Alene, 384 F.3d at 681. Plaintiff has failed to 7 identify any California law imposing any legal obligation 8 upon the Tribe. The only legal obligation imposed by 9 California's income tax is on Tribe members, and that 10 obligation is imposed within California's borders.

11 12 Here, regardless of where the activities generating 13 the income occur, the Tribe members ultimately receive 14 that income at the location where they reside, i.e., 15 within the State of California. By living within the 16 State of California, the Tribe members avail themselves 17 of the benefits of expenditures made by California's 18 state and local governments. California imposes its 19 income tax on the Tribe members within California 20 borders, and Tribe members are obliged to pay 21 California's income within California borders.
22 California has not sought to apply its income tax to any 23 person or entity located on Tribal lands. Accordingly, 24 the legal incidence of California's income tax falls off 25 the reservation.

26
27
28

1 As the legal incidence of the tax falls off the 2 reservation, the rule announced in Mescalero – i.e., that 3 "[a]bsent express federal law to the contrary, Indians 4 going beyond reservation boundaries have generally been 5 held subject to non-discriminatory state law otherwise 6 applicable to all citizens of the State" – applies here.
7 411 U.S. at 148-49. Plaintiff has identified no express 8 federal law forbidding imposition of California's 9 personal income tax to Tribal members living within 10 California's borders; accordingly, Plaintiff's claim 11 fails to the extent it alleges preemption based on tribal 12 sovereignty.
